NUMBER 80.

High Class Attractions.

The people of Paris and Bourbon county are showing by their liberal patronage their hearty appreciation of the high class attractions of the Robinson Amusement Company now exhibiting in this city.

The shows are distinctly new and entirely different from the ordinary street fair combinations. They possess a high order of merit, are strictly moral, elevating and instructive in every feature. The splendid attractions should be seen by every man, woman and child in Bourbon County.

The shows at which a small admission fee is charged, and that are especially worthy of mention are "Schultz's Trained Animals," "The Great Train Robbery," "Aimee," "The Japanese Theatre," the realistic "Wild West," the melody of the "Old Plantation," and last but not least, "The Electric Fountain." Of this last attraction too much can not be said. Perfectly bewildering and mystifying in all of its realistic features, it furnishes an instructive and scientific presentation of the awe inspiring eruption of Mount Pelee.

Only two more days remain, afternoon and evenings, in which to see the new and novel shows of the Robinson Amusement Company. The free attractions to be seen are worth any one's time to go miles to see. "The Leap for Life," by the daring Capt. Nick Carter, who leaps backward from the top of a ladder 112 feet high into a small basin of water, is the most thrilling feature of the show.

A Great Trotting Meeting.

The Lexington trots this week are proving to be one of the greatest meetings ever held. Large crowds have been present each day, and with the excellent music and fast time being made it is an ideal meeting—due to the untiring energy of that prince of Secretaries, Horace Wilson.
